Soviet Wheat Good

. . . Harvest Progress 'Near Normal'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said Sunday that the Soviet Union grain harvest was progressing "near normal" by late August despite reports of excess rain in some areas where crops remained to be threshed.

Further, one official said, the department is still sticking by its earlier estimate that Russia will harvest a record grain crop of 195 million tons gross

"That's still good as far as the information we have now is concerned," Roger Euler, chief of the Communist countries branch in the Economic Research Service, told a reporter. "From the little hints coming through, things sound pretty good."

The department's estimate that Russia would harvest 195 million metric tons of grain this year goes back to July. Since then reports have sifted out of Moscow that severe weather might cause a substantial reduction from that amount.

Although 195 million tons of grain - including wheat, rye, oats, barley and corn — would be less than Moscow's goal of 197.4 million, the supply would be far greater than Russia's riddled 1972 harvest gross of 168 million tons.

It was the low yield last year that led to the Soviet Union's massive purchases of U.S. grain. In a report Sunday, the Foreign Agricultural Service said that as of Aug. 20 about 55% of the Soviet grain crop acreage had been cut, approximately on target with the harvest in recent years.

to thresh the grain from the windrowed plants. "The area of grain crops in windrows totaled 23.7 million acres as of July 30," the report said. "It was reduced substantially in the next two weeks but increased to 23.95 million acres as of Aug. 20, significantly more than on these dates in any of the past three years.'

The report added that the wndrowed grain was rained upon which probably resulted "in some deterioration in the quality" of the crops. Also, the report said, weather probably has caused some field losses because of harvest delays and lodged or tangled plants.

"Nevertheless, it does not appear that conditions have been sufficiently bad to date to have caused serious problems with respect to harvesting losses or grain quality," the report said.

by LYNN ZERSCHLING

Star Staff Writer The Lincoln City Council has received a blueprint for hiring a planning analyst to assess the community's social service needs.

In a 45-page report to city lawmakers, consultant Dick Gilliland sets out a time schedule for the planning project and urges the appointment of a blue ribbon panel to advise on the selection of the planning analyst.

The question of the city's funding of a number of human service programs popped up when the federal government handed the city some $4.5 million in general revenue sharing.

The council has set aside some 500,000 for funding human service needs, but is awaiting help in determining which programs to fund.

Gilliland was hired by city lawmakers Aug. 6 for a maximum fee of $2,000 to set up a project plan for funding those programs.

To get the program off the ground, Gilliland suggests the appointment of a blue ribbon panel which would assist the council in selecting the analyst - either an outside consultant or a full time staff person.

Advantage

One possible advantage of hiring a consultant, Gilliland contended, would be that "the firm may have available professional personnel to handle a number of specific needs that arise.

With a staff person, outside assistance would have to be sought for specific needs, he said.

Membership on the panel would be limited both in numbers and to individuals not affiliated with either privately or publicly funded agencies which would have a vested interest in seeking a share of the revenue sharing treasury.

Additionally, the panel would be composed of professionals in the fields of economics, political science, social welfare, law, sociology and manage-

Conversly, the task forces would be unlimited in number and would represent the general community by giving input to the council on social service needs. Gilliland suggests that existing neighborhood organizations could constitute one task force area.

The council, upon recommendations of the blue ribbon panel, would choose an analyst by Oct. 1, according to the report's timetable.

The analyst would then aid city lawmakers in determining the type and extent of local government involvement in planning, programming and budgeting for social service needs not now assigned to other agencies of government.

Time Schedule And to do that, Gilliland sets up a time schedule which runs to Sept. 1, 1974, the end of the one year project period.

In the following order Gilliland recommends that the council:

- Set up its legislative program to work on necessary legislation to fund social service programs.

 Call upon existing research and planning agencies to provide input into the area. He points out that such activities are being carried out now by

- Collect data from existing information and referral services to assist the council in making the Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council.

 Start work to secure funds and grants. - Set up a management system to meet social programming needs, which would be designed as

 Create a budgeting process for such programs by July, 1974, the next city budget cycle.

- Work with the Lancaster County Board, the City-County Implementation Commissions and other agencies in planning for human service needs.

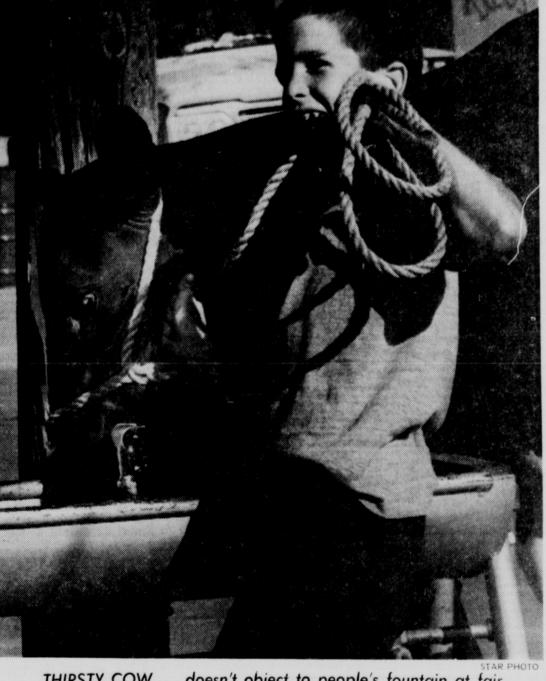

Not Prescription

an on-going process.

Although setting up this program, Gilliland emphasizes, "It is not intended to be a prescription for what must be done." Instead, he urges that the model should serve as the initial starting point in the social planning process.

By following this plan, Gilliland contended that the major benefit which will result "is a more rational approach, based on more information, to making decisions.

The council is expected to take up the report, entitled, Implementation Alternatives for a Planning Analysis Project, A Working Paper, in discussions Tuesday.

Lone Pigeon Flees Fair In Face Of Vast Crowd

By DICK HOLMAN

Star Staff Writer A racing homer pigeon turned the tables on ogling Nebraska State Fairgoers Sunday.

While fair visitors eyed the caged pigeons, the bold bird escaped from its judge and viewed the spectators from a roof beam high above the cages.

But no one was too concerned. said veteran pigeon judge Al Westling of Topeka, Kan. "If he gets out, it'll be okay. He'll just fly home."

If the pigeon wanted to return home, he was the only one. State Fair Manager Henry Brandt estimated Sunday's crowd would hit about 130,000 and if shoulderrubbing was any indication, Brandt was under the mark.

The grounds were a sea of movement, like an open sardine can of people forced to move slowly wherever they were going. Elbow room was at a premium.

The heat and crowds apparently were too much for two individuals. Robert L. Pearson of Great Bend, Kan., was treated for nausea and stomach distress and released from Lincoln General Hospital Sunday after-Sunday is traditionally the biggest day at the fair. The open air auditorium was packed for the 10:30 a.m. Lutheran church services, and it stayed packed for the Six Fat Dutchmen, a ruralurban young adult program and gospel singers.

cond scoring 1574. Steve Hecht of York won first place in individual competition with 574 of 600 points. Brandt said the fair was running smoothly. The only problem that cropped up so far was a leak in a water main at the campgrounds. About 90,000 people attended the fair Saturday, and about 6,- 000 saw the Pat Boone Family show, Brandt said, which was "well received." Charles Miller of Omaha, an executive fair board member, said that after the Pat Boone show, "we were overwhelmed by the number of people that wanted to get back and forth to the campground from the fair Using Own Cars couldn't accommodate them all, Miller said Brandt and several executive board members "were hauling people in our own cars. Even Henry's wife (Lorene Brandt) was hauling campers."

Because the shuttle bus

Brandt said there are about 400 units parked in the new campgrounds, "twice as large as the old one" where the new NU Fieldhouse is going up

Monday night the open class beef and dairy will leave the fair. "We'll work around the clock," Brandt said. All 4-H entries will leave by Tuesday at 10 a.m. FFA competitors will arrive Wednesday morning.

Monday's events include Arabian and Appaloosa judging in the Coliseum, fashion shows in the Expo Building, bands parading on the grounds; pom pon girls, Six Fat Dutchmen and gospel singers in the open air auditorium; auto races at 2 p.m. in the grandstand; the Appaloosa performance class at 7:30 p.m. in the Coliseum, and the Sonny James grandstand show at 7:30 p.m.

McNeil May Head Legislative Council privately discussed by a number By DON WALTON

Star Staff Writer

Versatile state government troubleshooter Murrell McNeil may be called upon to direct the Legislature's constantly expanding staff services.

McNeil, the state's ombudsman and former state tax commissioner, is a leading prospect for appointment as executive director of the Legislative Council.

But no decision has yet been made as to who will succeed the late George Gerdes, who died last month. Gerdes was the first man to hold the position.

The Legislative Council's executive board, headed by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, will name the new director, subject to later confirmation by the Legislature.

The board will meet in Lincoln next Friday, but Carpenter said he doubts that any final decision will be made at that time.

"We probably won't do anything about it until later in the year," Carpenter said.

The matter has already been of senators who met unofficially in Lincoln last week, Carpenter

Other prospects, he said, are State Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln, former State Sen. Dale Payne of Bellevue, Clerk of the Legislature Vince Brown and Jack Rodgers, the Legislative Council's director of research.

"To my knowledge, none of them would turn it down if it were offered," Carpenter said.

McNeil might be "the nearest thing to Gerdes" of any of them, Carpenter said. But he stressed that no decision has been made.

McNeil, 56, has been in state government for 10 years, first as a budget analyst, then as assistant state tax commissioner, assuming the post of tax commissioner in 1967 after the election of Gov. Norbert Tiemann.

As tax commissioner from 1967 to 1971, McNeil directed the state's implementation of the new sales and income tax system which replaced the old state property tax.

After Tiemann's term of office was completed, the Legislature tapped McNeil as a legislative researcher in 1971.

And in June of 1971, it picked him to become the state's first ombudsman, implementing a state law which created the new office. For two years, McNeil has been handling citizen complaints or inquiries dealing with state government.

Prior to his entry into state government, McNeil was a career Army officer. He retired in 1963 after 22 years of service.

Kurt Waldheim Leaves Cairo For Visit To Jordan

Cairo — Secretary General Kurt Waldheim of the United Nations left Cairo for Amman, Jordan, after two days of talks with Egyptian officials, including President Anwar El-Sadat, In a statement to reporters. Waldheim said that the peace-seeking mission of Gunnar V. Jarring, his representative, continued and that the so-called "Jarring memorandum" still stood. Jarring's mission has been in abeyance since early 1971, when Israel rejected his memorandum inviting her to accept the principle of full withdrawal from the occupied Arab territories to the lines that existed before the six-day war of 1967. Waldheim got a friendly, but low-key reception in the Egyptian press.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Have you asked your doctor a question over the phone lately and found a bill for it in the following month's mail? Try your attorney; probably the same thing will happen because there are fewer and fewer things in the world that are free these days.

When the appliance man tells you your garbage disposal can't be fixed, don't figure you at least have escaped a charge. He will charge you for the information. Now, the New York Telephone Company is proposing a new wrinkle a charge of 7.5 cents for every use of directory assistance.

So, the day will undoubtedly come when it will cost you to call the operator for a number you can't find. It really isn't free now, says the company, but is simply paid for in the charges made for all phone service.

If the idea continues to catch on, the opportunity to make a buck might be limitless. So you don't want a daily newspaper — that will cost you $2 a week. The reason is that your failure to take a paper is cutting down on volume savings and thereby costing all regular subscribers.

Justice demands that you cough up $2 if you want the pleasure of no daily newspaper. And are you "just looking" a lot of the time when you visit the new car dealer's

Too bad, the look will cost you $10 bucks. You see, the dealer has to have something for you to look at there on his floor. This costs him money, of course, and it is not right that the buyer be made to pay all such costs while the looker pays

Try the idea yourself. The next time you are stopped and asked if you could supply directions to the local post office, reply that you can for a 25-cent fee.

This could be a big thing in labor unions one of these days. Suppose it is your job to administer the sales department under the terms and policies laid down by the manage-

But along comes the boss one day and wants to know what you think about doubling the sales force. Bingo, the boss owes you $25 for your opinion. After all, you are hired to follow directions, not make decisions.

In the grocery store there would be a sliding scale. On purchases of $5 or less a surcharge of $2 would be affixed. For a $25 purchase, the surcharge would be $1 and for more than $25, the charge would be 50 cents.

The reason is obvious; the little buyer ought to share in the expense of having so many things on hand for the heavy purchaser. After all, we do want to treat everyone equal.

Who knows, the government may even get in the act and start charging for the air you breathe. To appear before the City Council will call for a $5 permit.

Believe it or not, there is a national organization dedicated to the elimination of pay toilets. By golly, it might not be so funny one of these days.

There can be no question that taxpayers are against the use of any tax funds to promote or oppose schemes of public concern.

The issue arises as a result of Lincoln Electric System and county government contributions to the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce industrial development fund. But there is some uncertainty as to what use the funds were put. It has been said, and denied by the Chamber, that the LES funds might have gone into a Chamber program of promotion of the controversial Northeast Diagonal.

Whether such is the case or not, there is apparently a soft spot in state law which could allow for contributions by public bodies to partisan local issues. If the law is hazy in this area, it should not prohibited from contributing anything for political any side issues or programs.

There should be no argument with Senator purposes. This applies especially to tax-supported

We would not suggest, however, that the law could not help support Chamber efforts toward industrial growth. LES ought to be fairly free to pursue normal promotional activities that are engaged in by similar private utilities

LES, however, should not contribute to partisan political issues simply because it is a publicly owned utility. There may be some difficulty in always separating funds once they are contributed but this, it seems, could be rather easily handled with proper accounting procedures required in the Tax-supported bodies such as the county and city government should not, perhaps, even be contributing to non-partisan affairs such as industrial development. Generally speaking, tax funds ought All public bodies, we believe, ought to be to go for the support of local government only, not Nebraska voters will have an opportunity next year to make a start - but only a start - at correcting the situation.

Voters in 1974 will be asked to consider a proposed constitutional admendment increasing the maximum salary from $400 to $675 a month.

That's $8,100 a year. Particularly active since adjournment of the 1973 Legislature have been the Public Health and Welfare Committee and the Agriculture Committee. But this week's four-day schedule indicates that legislative duties will be performed by members of at least four committees. Nebraska's Legislature, in the 1970's, has been upgrading its operations at a rather startling rate. Increased staff and research assistance, especially in fiscal matters, has been major. And the more a senator can rely on good and impartial information from a staff assistant, the less he has to rely on the admittedly prejudiced outlook of a

The smart senator, of course, seeks information from both and makes his own judgment.

When Traditions Were Born.

In 1901, Charles Roper and Charles Beecher opened their first funeral business in a then modern location at 124 South 13th Street. Five years later, Castle and Roper introduced the city's first horse-drawn Today, of course, the horses are gone-replaced by a fleet of modern funeral vehicles. The facilities have grown to two convenient locations and a staff of highly trained morticians. And the name is now Roper and Sons Mortuary. But one thing that has never changed is the Roper and Sons tradition of thoughtful service and care.

Bugs Play A Part

Star Staff Writer

Seven hundred thousand insects are playing an inconspicuous but colorful part in the Nebraska State Fair.

It took that many cochineal bugs - ground up - to make the dye for just one pound of dusky purple yarn that Mrs. Anne Hemphill uses in her weaving demonstration.

Visitors at the fair's Class K Fine Arts show in the east end of the grandstand can pick up how-to-do-it tips in weaving and 12 other art skills from members of the Lincoln Artists Guild, who are putting on demonstrations from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

Mrs. Hemphill has only one problem. She welcomes questions about weaving from fairgoers and she's having a devil of a time figuring out where she left off her work between the interruptions.

"I just gave up," she laughed about the progress of her shepherd's bag. But it looks good anyway

She uses a four-harness loom. The harnesses are levers that, when flipped into different configurations, bring up different numbers of thread and determine the design of Flipping each lever, Mrs. Hemphill explained, "changes the shed" - the space between the top and bottom threads where the yarn is pushed through.

"You can do this in many different sequences," she said, "which gives it several different designs, although essentially you have the same threading.

Also, by changing the original threading of the loom, the pattern can be changed.

While Mrs. Hemphill shows fair visitors how she weaves her bag, another Guild member, Mrs. Virginia Porterfield, sits nearby, attracting curious looks as she spins flax on her five-year-old wheel.

Since she began spinning in 1968. Mrs. Porterfield has become something of an expert on the subject. While she pulled flax from her ribboned distaff and her bestockinged foot slowly pushed the treadle, she explained what happens before she gets the fibre.

"It comes from a flowered plant," she said, that grows in Scotland, Ireland, England, Russia and France. "It will be a different color depending on where it comes from.

Flax from Russia, for example, will be grey,

Once into her hands, Mrs. Porterfield ties a small cord around her waist from which she spreads out the flax in a fan-like procedure, then ties it loose and seemingly inextricably onto a distaff atop the wheel, ready to spin.

The treadle turns the wheel which makes the flyer fly around and puts a twist in the flax that Mrs. Porterfield pulls down into a string of varn and wets to strengthen and smooth it.

Spinning, she said, requires less concentration than weaving. In the past, married women with husbands already hooked — were given the weaving, presumably because they would not be thinking of men when they should be eyeing their work.

The single ladies, Mrs. Porterfield explained, did the spinning which required less attention and allowed them to talk to their beaus. Thus, she said, unmarried women came to be called "spinsters.

Mrs. Porterfield had some advice for aspiring spinners who scout antique shops for a wheel to start their hobby.

The flywheel may not be the original one that came with the rest of the spinning wheel, she warned. And the grooves in the wheel itself

She said the best plan when finding a wheel is to use some cord and test it out on the spot.

The others, who fled the country, were tried in absentia. They had all their property confiscated.

Hassan, 44, has escaped two known assassination attempts by army officers in the last several years. Many of the defendants sentenced Sunday were young teachers and engineers, apparently unconnected with the army plots.

NU, 'Jays On Same Floor

Although Husker basketball coach Joe Cipriano and his counterpart at Creighton, Eddie Sutton, haven't talked about establishing a series between the two schools, there has been talk about the two schools playing on the same program.

Sutton confirmed that he has discussed a two-night, doubleheader idea with Cipriano and the Nebraska cage boss indicated he might entertain such a plan.

The plan would have Nebraska play a team like Drake in the first game of a doubleheader the first night. In the second game Creighton would meet a team like Iowa with the twin bill being played the first night in Omaha's Civic Auditorium, possibly on a Friday night.

Then on Saturday night the Bluejays would play Iowa in the first game and the Huskers meet Drake in the second game in a doubleheader in NU's new fieldhouse.

"We at Creighton believe such an idea would be good for boosting interest in basketball in the state," Sutton

"We will continue to talk to Nebraska about a series with Creighton, but if Joe doesn't want it, we won't try to force the issue."

Sutton indicated that there would be too much ill will imposed if his school tried to force Nebraska into playing a series and rather than do that, the Bluejays want to maintain the good relations that the two schools now enjoy and will not press a proposed series.

However, none of the Creighton-Nebraska plans will get beyond the talking stage until the Huskers' new fieldhouse is completed, Sutton points out.

UNO-'Jays Series Coming

The University of Nebraska at Omaha and Creighton are planning on scheduling a series in basketball, hopefully starting with the 1974-75 or 1975-76 seasons.

UNO also hopes to eventually add several other Big Eight schools to its basketball schedule within the next few years as part of the upgrading of the Mavericks' athletic program.

Kansas City-Omaha Kings' public relations director Bruce Sloan and 6-5 starting forward Nate Williams were in Lincoln recently promoting their team.

The pair, along with the rest of the Kings, will be back in Lincoln Oct. 6 for an exhibition game with the Detroit Pistons at Pershing Auditorium.

Among the seniors on Kearney State's football team are Lincoln Southeast's Bob Green and Lincoln East's Stu Unrau.

Crete senior Raph Chrastil has decided to not participate in football this year for Doane, but will instead coach the defensive backs.

Chrastil was an all-Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference pick last season, a Tiger tri-captain and one of the team's best kick returners.

Forest Hills, N.Y. (UPI) -The upset ridden U.S. Open Tennis championships lost another big name Sunday when Bjorn Borg of Sweden beat thirdseeded Arthur Ashe to move into the last 16 of the men's singles where he was joined by favored Stan Smith.

Borg, the 17-year-old Swedish sensation in his first year of bigtime tournament play, looked anything but a novice as he took Ashe, last year's beaten finalist and the 1968 winner, apart to register a 6-7, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 victory before a packed stadium court

Smith, the co-first seed from Sea Pines, S.C., had his work cut out against 21-year-old Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., before he advanced with a 6-7, 7-6, 6-4, 6-3 win.

Ashe was not the only seed seven have gone in the men's division - to bite the dust on another hot, humid day. Manuel Orantes, the 8th choice from Spain, lost in three sets to Ross Case of Australia, 6-1, 6-4, 7-6.

Tom Gorman of Seattle, Wash., the 13th choice, beat British left-hander Mark Cox, 3-6, 7-5, 6-4, 6-4; Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia, seeded 16th, beat Phil Dent of Australia, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4. 6-1, while New Zealand's Onny Parun took his Davis Cup teammate Jeft Simpson, 3-6, 6-3, 7-6, Tigers Fire Martin After 'Spitball' "contributing factor but not the sole reason" for Martin's release.

The firing capped a stormy year with the Tigers for Martin. During spring training in Lakeland, Fla., Martin was charged with profanity in a swearing incident outside of a bar.

Shortly afterward, Martin staged a 24-hour walkout from the Tigers following a disagreement with Campbell over disciplining Tiger outfielder Willie Horton.

Martin's firing was announced before Sunday's home game against Cleveland, which the Tigers won 2-1. The Tigers, who won the American League East last year and were leading the division as recently as Aug. 6, have slumped to third place, 81/2 gamesback of frontrunning Baltimore.

Martin had one year to go on a $65,000-a-year two-year contract. Unless he signs to manage another club, the Tigers will be stuck with the Reports have been published that both the New York Yankees and New York Mets were interested in the former Yankee player as a manager, but both clubs declined comment.

Campbell said third base coach Joe Schultz will continue as acting manager of the team for the rest of the season.

"I have no qualms about his managing at all," Campbell said of Martin. "From foul line to foul line he's a good manager. But he has other responsibilities—responsibilities to baseball and to the organization.'

Campbell said he called owner John Fetzer of Kalamazoo, Mich., around noon and recommended Martin be fired. He said Fetzer agreed. But Campbell said,"It was my decision and I'll take the responsibility.

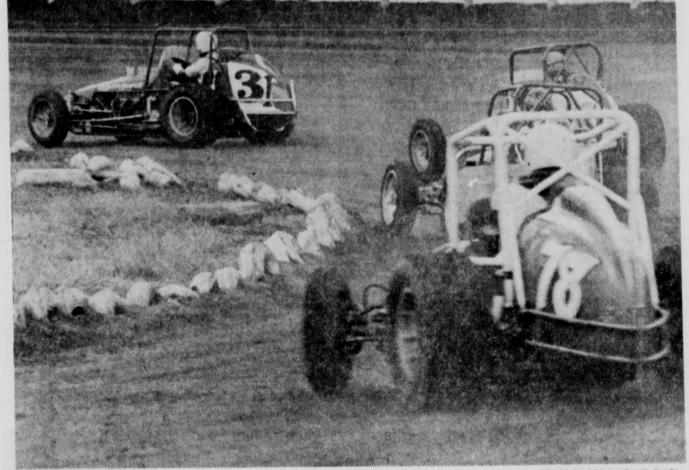

Campbell said he informed Martin by telephone at 12:30 p.m., moments before the public announcement, that he was fired. He said Martin replied, "Thanks Jim. It's been nice working for you and Mr. Fetzer.

Schultz told newsmen, "I feel very bad about it. After working for him three years we were pretty close. I can't criticize the man for finishing first and second." Asked if he would like to stay on, Schultz replied, "Sure, anybody would like to be permanent manager.

Catcher Bill Freehan said simply, "I hate to see anybody lose their job." Asked what he thought of Martin as a manager, Freehan said he had no comment. Most of the other players questioned either expressed surprise, or were noncommittal.

New Shooting Hours Set

Nebraska hunters will be on a different schedule this fall, with new shooting hours for upland game birds, wild turkey, and waterfowl.

Legal shooting on all these species begins 15 minutes before Clevel Veteran Sonny Jurgensen resur-sunrise and ends at sunset. Cotrected the Washington Redskins tontail, squirrel, snipe, and rail in the second half Sunday night, become legal game at the traditional one-half hour before sunset this year, however, because these seasons were set earlier in the summer.

Opening shooting 15 minutes before sunrise will allow a hunter to be in the field at dawn when game is on the move, yet provide more light for identification of game than he had when shooting opened one-half hour before sunrise. This extra light is especially important to duck hunters, who could fill a day's limit by shooting the wrong duck, and to pheasant hunters. who can shoot only roosters. The The Redskins, trailing 14-7 at amount of light available for intermission, evened the score at visibility is considerably greater 3:14 of the third period on a at 15 minutes before sunrise Jurgensen short pass to rookie than at 30 minutes before

Indianapolis Tops Omaha

Omaha (AP) - A four-run barrage in the sixth inning helped Indianapolis to a 7-2 triumph over the Omaha Royals Saturday night in American Association baseball

The Indians scored two runs on a single by Joel Youngblood and two more on a double by Jim Driscoll. Roe Skidmore hit his 19th home run of the season in the ninth to pad the score.

Omaha center fielder Jim Wohlford left the game in the first inning after he collided with second baseman Tom Joyce chasing a fly ball. Joyce moved to right field but in the seventh he also left the game when his ankle began to bother him.

Space Problems Worsen In County-City Building

By LYNN ZERSCHLING Star Staff Writer

Like the mythical old woman in the shoe with too many kids, there are too many offices and not enough space in the County-City Building.

The latest problem to confront city officials is where to house the newly created Department of Community Development.

For the time being, the director of that umbrella organization, Leo Scherer, will be moved into the fourth floor office of the city's corporation counsel, Ralph Nelson. Things may be a little crowded in that miniscule office.

But, Nelson, at least, is staying in the building.

Right next door, the City Housing Administrator's Office headed by Carl Kopines is awaiting word on when and where they're going. That office is being displaced by an ever enlarging data processing department.

Move Considered

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf said the city is considering moving the housing office to the former "comfort station" at 9th and O.

"We just do not have space available in City Hall," Schwartzkopf remarked.

Another space problem, rather the lack of it, has caused some stir between city lawmakers and the three Municipal Court judges over the creation of a fourth municipal courtroom.

The court asked for and is bulging at the seams.

received this year appropriations for the fourth judge to handle the increasing case load and the new small claims division.

Space Wanted However, Judges Donald Grant, Neal Dusenberry and Thomas McManus have actively opposed the creation of a fourth judgeship without corollary courtroom space.

In a strongly worded letter to the City Council and mayor last year, the judges stated, "The people of this community deserve better than locker room, corner partitions, or boiler room courtrooms."

In September, 1972, the court recommended that that area now occupied by the City Personnel Department be transformed into that much debated courtroom. The personnel quarters are adjacent to the other municipal courtrooms on the second floor.

But, then, where would the personnel department travel to with all its massive records on city employes?

Schwartzkopf emphatically stated, "The Personnel Department has to be in City Hall there's no question about that.

Rotating Schedules Instead of building a fourth courtroom, council members have suggested that the judges' schedules be rotated to alleviate the courtroom dilemna.

And with other city offices beefed up staffs, office help and Judge Ralph Slocum. Cheuvront uses individual hearing rooms or the county commissioners hearing room when the regular courtroom is in use.

Office To Be Abolished? One area mentioned as a possible second courtroom is the Superintendent of Schools' Office on the second floor. That office may be abolished next year.

But, that space also is being considered for expansion of County Attorney Paul Douglas' offices. Douglas's space on the second floor is severly crowded with the addition of several deputies.

The county commissioners have indicated they would not object to having their hearing room remodeled for the cour-

In that event, the county would have to work out some arrangement with the city to use the council chambers.

But, perhaps the ultimate answer to the space problem lies, as some County-City already overcrowded due to Building observers contend, in adding on the fifth floor to the files, the city side of the building building, constructed only five Mexican-American Pilot Heads Aeronautics Dept.

By ODELL HANSON Associated Press Writer

A 6-foot-4 helicopter pilot with roots in Colorado and a military backaground moved Saturday into the highest state government position ever accorded a Mexican-American in

"It's something I'm very proud of," says Rudolf "Rudy" Peralez, the state's new Aeronautics Department director.

Previously deputy director of the state's Technical Assistance Agency (TAA), the 34-year-old Peralez was appointed recently to take over, on Sept. 1, the $15. 250 a year position made vacant nearly a year ago with the resignation of Nick Smeloff. The assignment puts 24 Aeronautics Department employes under the supervision of a trim but football-size 225-pounder with brown eyes, black hair and handsome features, who finds that flying releases his tensions.

"Some people get in their car, or take a swim, or do something else to free the soul and relieve the tension. Flying does it for Peralez is a 1961 graduate of Colorado State University at Fort Collins with a major in sociology. He was an Army officer for more than five years, served two hitches totaling 18 months in Vietnam, and gave the business world a whirl before settling into government service.

The business experience was gained during 18 months as manager of a department store in Scottsbluff, a position for which he had undergone six months of training with a national chain.

Customer relations against the profit motive background cy, but they can eat more things created some conflicts distasteful for Peralez. "I think I was coming down with ulcers, and I figured it wasn't for me.'

"I love working with people, doing things for people, but I couldn't do it with that type of approach. So I started working with the Community Action Agency in Gering, and I have not regretted it since.

He held the Gering position from October of 1969 to May of 1971, when he moved to Lincoln to become deputy TAA director.

Peralez was born and reared at Platteville, Colo., where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Peralez, still farm and live.

Born in Mexico, the elder Peralez moved to Texas with his parents when three months old. Before settling down on the Colorado farm 30 years ago, he was a migrant farm worker.

Rudy's mother, Carmen, was born in Colorado, lost her mother as a girl and had to drop out of school after the third grade to help care for younger brothers. She would read textbooks brought home by then and although she lacked formal education, is regarded by her son as a well-educated woman who pushed for college educations for her children.

Doctor: Bland Diets No Help For Ulcers

with stomach ulcers may not be able to eat everything they fanthan many physicians think, a doctor says.

Dr. Robert M. Donaldson Jr., of Boston University school of medicine, says there is little evidence that the so-called bland foods prescribed for peptic ulcer patients actually help.

It has been long recognized that "diet therapy for most afflictions of the digestive tract is based on unsubstantiated opi nion and tradition," he writes in the Sept. 3 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Using peptic ulcer diets as an example, Donaldson says that

Lincoln Man Hurt In Crash

A Lincoln man was listed in 'fair' condition at Lincoln General Hospital Sunday afternoon following a one-car accident on the north side of Branched Oak Lake, according to Lancaster Coaunty Sheriff's deputies.

Deputies said Daniel Duden, 44, of 2126 No. Cotner, suffered facial cuts, a concussion and a possible dislocated shoulder when the car he was driving went out of control, rolled into a ditch and burst into flames.

Duden was pulled from the wreckage by four passersby.

CHICAGO (AP) — Patients foods which are white, soft and mild in taste are considered bland. However, he points out, "there is something fundamentally wrong with an approach that assumes that the form, consistency, color, taste, and odor of a food as perceived on a platter" have anything to do with the effects of these foods on the gastrointestinal tract. "Thus, there seems to be little doubt that the ulcer patient should after all be allowed to enjoy his food," he wrote. Similar confusion exists about the dietary treatment of a number other gastrointestinal diseases, Donaldson said. And he added that "diet manuals persistently contain detailed and often contradictory instructions as to what patients with these disorders should and should not eat.

'If a patient with one of the common gastrointestinal disorders believes that a specific food causes symptoms, it is reasonable for him to avoid eating that food," the physician

"This in no way means, however, that that food is 'bad' for all patients with the same disorder," he cautions.

"Indeed, no firm evidence exists that any particular food intolerance is characteristic of any of the common disorders for which diets are often enthusiastically prescribed,' Donaldson said
